

WISHING YOU A BLESSED CHRISTMAS

2009 has been a year of seeing God provide in unexpected ways both at the hospital and on the mission. On Kibogora hill we have seen 458 visitors come through and our staff have done a great job of feeding and taking care of us all.

One new area that we are developing is the care of borderline malnutrition in the community.

Health workers follow up and monitor the children and families, and are having a great impact. This group was asked what they needed the most to ensure good nutrition for their families and most said small animals. Rabbits and goats are soon to be distributed and plans for follow up being made. It often doesn't take much often to make a difference, just a sensitivity to individuals and their situations.

At the hospital growth in the number of staff and services keeps us depending on God's Provision, many times literally on a daily basis. But God is ever faithful and the chaplains report that several patients were saved during their stay and many others asked for and received prayer.

Pastor Wakana, our beloved chaplain will be retiring next year so we are looking for the right person to replace him. We will send that person to Kenya to a chaplains training course in mid 2010

God bless you for your care and support of these vulnerable families
